

LOVE THAT IDEA OF A EUROPEAN CAR IN YOUR DRIVEWAY?

UNEASY ABOUT HIGHER INSURANCE PREMIUMS?

FEAR NOT.

Another commonly held misbelief about European car ownership is the perceived costs of insurance. Generally, those outside the business simply assume there is a large premium to be paid when adding a European car to your typical auto insurance policy. With the increased focus of insurance providers on safety and personal injury related claims, the gap between European cars and many more conventional (read unexciting) domestic and Japanese offerings has narrowed significantly. In some cases certain European cars are cheaper to insure than a far less equipped and far less capable domestic or Japanese sedan. So not only can European cars save your life, they can save you money. Now that's value.

Below you will find tables showing the average insurance costs one can expect for various age groups when considering European versus non-European automobiles. All information compiled by Kennedy Insurance Brokers of North Bay. All vehicles used in the comparison are model year 2009. The left column is devoted to the various age groups. The remaining rows show varying insurance rates per year. Many may be shocked to find that annually, the average insurance costs of a BMW, Volvo or Audi could be as little as $114.00 per year more costly than say a Chev Malibu. If the client qualifies for the Kennedy Chamber of Commerce Program that figure could drop to a low of $61.00 per year. Look closely and the reader will find that a 40–60 year old male or female can insure a Volvo S60 cheaper than they could a Honda Accord, or even a Ford Fusion! Point being, if they aren't cheaper, the European cars certainly are a lot less than you think, and they're worth every penny. 🚗

 All premium estimates were prepared for the effective date of March 1st, 2013 with consistent driver profiles. Driver profiles do not include any at fault claims or convictions.

 Coverage criteria - $1 Million Third Party Liability, $500 Collision Deductible, $300 Comprehensive Deductible, OPCF 44, CPP, 20 / 27 (Loss of Use / Non Owned Vehicle)

 Estimated premiums are based on North Bay - Territory 10 ratings with a stand commute distance of 10 kms one way

 No Multi line discounts (Property) were included - to estimate price with Multi Line, reduce premium estimation by 10%

 Applicant must qualify to receive Chamber Program rates
